Reply by Minister Emmerson to Statement by Director
General Mori on the Question of the Flags to be Flown on Ryukyu Vessels

10/18 6:17

Mr. Mori has recognized that there are difficulties arising out of legal considerations or related to international practices concerning the vessel flag problem. He has requested the U.S. side to try to overcome these legal considerations and other difficulties.

Foreign Minister Shiina, however, indicated that there were also legal difficulties involved on the Japanese side, and we understand that Japanese law would not permit the flying of the Japanese national flag on Ryukyu vessels. The legal difficulties surrounding the flag question, therefore, are not solely on the American side, but include difficulties of Japanese law over which the U.S. has no control.
